

Hop Shot

A micro dexterity game for 2 players in 10 minutes inspired by the Japanese sport of pole toppling.

Components

- 4 discs: 2 each of black and natural
- 1 pole
- 1 reference card

Setup

1. Select a play surface; ideally a smooth table or play mat around 3' per side
2. Each player selects a color and places their discs along the edge of the play surface closest to themselves
3. Set the pole and card aside
4. Players take turns flicking one disc into play
5. Place the pole on top of the final disc to be flicked

Gameplay

Players attempt to win by knocking over the pole twice with an airborne disc.

Turns

1. The current player takes an action with 1 of their discs: Flick or Ramp
2. After an action, see Leaving Play for any discs that left play
3. If a flicked disc hits an opponent's disc, the current player may take an action with their other disc
4. The current player then ends their turn by placing the pole on the disc they least recently took an action with

Flick

1. The current player flicks 1 of their discs along the play surface
2. If the pole is knocked over, return it to its disc and end the current player's turn

Ramp

To Ramp, there must be a disc between the player's disc and the pole:

1. Hold the card near the disc to be ramped with one edge on the play surface, creating a ramp aimed at the pole
2. Flick the player's disc up the card toward the pole
3. If the disc hits the pole while still airborne and the pole falls over, the Ramp is successful
4. The current player's turn ends

Leaving Play

- If any of the current player's discs leave play, return them to their edge of the play surface
- If any opponent discs leave play, the opponent flicks them back into play and the current player's turn ends

Game End

The first player to complete 2 successful Ramps wins.
